VICK'S VAPORUB

offers a new way to treat croup and cold troubles

THE OLD WAY

Treatment by internal dosing, which does not reach direct to the affected parts and which frequently does derange the digestion.

DIRECTIONS FOR THE USE OF VICKS

Vapors Important—For diseases of the respiratory organs, such as colds, a large part of the value of Vicks lies in its vaporizing qualities. Therefore, whenever Vicks is applied over the throat and chest, care should be taken to leave the clothing loose around the neck and the bed clothes arranged in the form of a funnel, so that the vapors arising may be freely inhaled.

Hot Wet Cloths—In cases of very severe colds, sore throat, coughs, incipient pneumonia, etc., hot, wet towels should be applied over the throat and chest to open the pores of the skin before applying Vicks.

Fresh Air—Plenty of fresh air in the bedroom at the best way to prevent colds and lung troubles. Fresh air does not cause colds; it strengthens the lungs, enabling the system to throw off colds.

Asthma—Vicks is not a "cure" for asthma—so far as we know, there is no cure. In many cases, however, Vicks does give relief. Rub it well over the spinal column, from the neck to the hips to relieve the nervous tension. Then apply freely over throat and chest at bed time and cover with hot flannels. Renew frequently and always have the covers loose, so that the vapors may be freely inhaled. Also melt Vicks in spoon and inhale the vapors and apply a little up the nostrils.

Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Colds in the Chest—If a severe case, first apply hot wet towels over the throat and chest. Then rub Vicks in well until the skin is red, spread on thickly and cover with two thicknesses of hot, flannel cloths.

Catarrh, Colds in the Head—Melt a little Vicks in a spoon and hold the vapors. Also apply well up the nostrils. There are so many varieties of catarrh that a competent physician should always be consulted. For many forms, however, Vicks is excellent. Dissolve a half teaspoonful of salt in warm water and wash up the nostrils right and morning. Then insert Vicks freely up the nostrils as far as possible, snuffing well back into the air passages.

Children's Colds—Vicks is particularly valuable in treating children's colds, since it is an external treatment, and therefore, does not disturb the delicate digestions of children. The best plan is to keep Vicks constantly on hand and apply freely and often at the first sign of "sniffles."

Growing children require plenty of fresh air and exercise and should be COLDS are simply inflammation or congestion of the mucous membrane or lining of the respiratory organs—air passages and lungs. They should be treated just as surface inflammations, such as Burns or Bruises are treated—that is, the medication should be applied directly to the inflamed parts. Internal medication going to the stomach does not reach directly the affected parts. But medication cannot be applied directly to the air passages and lungs except in the form of vapors that can be inhaled; and, until the discovery of Vicks VapoRub, there was no efficient, economical method of supplying these vapors.

Vicks Acts Both Externally and Internally

VICK'S VAPORUB is the discovery of a North Carolina druggist, L. Richardson, who found a way to combine the standard, time-tested remedies—Menthol, Camphor, Turpentine, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Juniper, etc.—in salve form, so that when Vicks is applied to the body, these ingredients are vaporized by the body heat.

INTERNALLY, these vapors, inhaled with each breath all night long, carry the medication direct to the air passages and lungs

EXTERNALLY, Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, attracting the blood to the affected parts and aiding the vapors inhaled to relieve the inflammation or congestion.

How the Use of Vicks Has Grown

Starting with the customers of Mr. Richardson's retail drug store, the use of Vicks has increased county by county, state by state, until now more than 17 million jars are used annually—practically one jar for every family in the United States—and this in spite of the fact that Vicks is still a new treatment to many people in the North and West. Once used, Vicks is a friend for life—it is so easily applied—so quick in its results.

THE NEW WAY

Treatment by Vicks's VapoRub, which is applied externally—relieving by inhalation as a vapor and by absorption and stimulation through the skin.

kept in the open as much as possible, even in the winter.

Coughs—Apply Vicks as directed for Colds to the Chest, Head, and if the cough is very annoying, swallow, every few hours, a small piece the size of a pea.

Croup—Spasmodic—Rub Vicks freely over chest and throat until the difficult breathing is relieved. One application is usually enough. To prevent croup during the night, give a good application over the throat and chest at bed time and cover with hot, flannel cloths.

Influenza—In spite of the epidemic last winter, very little is known of this disease—even the germ causing it is not yet definitely located and no specific for influenza so far as known has been discovered. In all cases a physician should be called promptly.

Vicks is to be used as an external application in connection with the physician's treatment. Apply as directed for Pneumonia.

To Avoid Influenza—Influenza is a spit-borne disease, and when inhaled the germs attack the mucous membrane, or lining of the air passages. Even this is not absolutely certain, but it is agreed by most authorities that keeping the system in good condition and the air passages stimulated and free from colds is the best way to avoid the disease.

Melting a little Vicks in a spoon night and morning and inhaling the vapors, and applying well up the nostrils several times a day, particularly when in crowds, is recommended.

Pneumonia—(1) Send for your physician at the first sign of pneumonia. (2) Immediately begin the use of Vicks as an external application. For pneumonia, Vicks is applied somewhat as directed for Deep Chest Colds, for full directions see the Directions Folder.

Tonsillitis—Apply as directed for Sore Throat.

Whooping Cough—This is a self-limited disease, running a course which varies from a few weeks to several months. There is no known specific—Vicks is of value in easing the cough paroxysms, and thus lessening their weakening effect on the system. Rub Vicks well over the spinal column, from the

GETS DIVORCE FROM LOCAL TAXI DRIVER

Charging her husband with cruelty while he was intoxicated, Bessie Y. Yahn, 27, this city was granted divorce from Gilbert E. Yahn, Janesville, taxi driver, 36, in circuit court Monday afternoon. In asking for the decree, the woman said they lived together until three weeks ago when her husband shamed her in a downtown restaurant and later in the night beat her and badly damaged her face.

She stated their marital troubles started in 1917, two years after they were married, when he came home and pulled her out of bed by her hair, and many times since he has hit her, beat her and swore at her, conduct which continues every time he gets drunk. She stated when he has not been drinking he is kind and gentle.

In granting decree, it was ordered that the personal property of both be sold and proceeds used to pay all debts in lieu of alimony.

Another Janesville Case.—Stating her husband would run up debts against her wishes for things they could not afford and that he packed up their things and moved to some other neighborhood and that when asked to return he would assault her, Inez Mascher, 31, Janesville, was granted divorce from Carl Mascher, 27, a dairyman from Janesville. Her troubles are said to have started in 1913 when he beat her and she was hospitalized. She stated when he tried to choke her and once threw scissors and shoes at her for none of which she said did she give any cause.

During her married life, she stated, she has had to work. They separated in August of last year leaving her with their two young children. "She does not know where he is."

FORWARD, JANESVILLE!

To make Janesville a better place in which to live and in which to do business, the Gazette pledges itself to work for and support these things:

Housing survey to discourage exorbitant rentals; encouragement of building more houses; apportionment of property values so that rent profiteers may be made to pay the increased amount of taxes.

Open roads in the country 365 days of the year; better roads generally, and support of the road building plans; better streets and more paved streets in the city.

A market pavilion in the city which may also be used for many other purposes by farmers and livestock producers.

A community building to be used for auditorium, sport events, meetings, rest rooms, and also as a fitting memorial for soldiers.

Open the churches seven days a week and stop economic waste in room and time. Make basement meeting places for the young, and provide gymnasium facilities.

Build a real home for the girls who come here to work.

Open the fair grounds this year as a recreation park with tennis courts and other play apparatus. Establish parks and playgrounds.

Better the street car service as population increases.

VOTERS HAVE A CHOICE.

What gave promise of an interesting and state election in the city has warmed into a real contest in every ward. The voters at least will have a choice. It will be a good time to look this field over carefully. That is especially true in regard to the office of school commissioner, where we have two candidates, one a woman, a situation seldom known in Janesville. If the suffrage act is passed this week women may vote for all candidates on the city ticket, and for school commissioner anyhow. If you are interested in city affairs ask the candidate how he stands on the vital questions.

A HAND PICKED CREW AND PLATFORM.

The La Crosse Tribune calls attention to the platform of the La Follette delegate candidates. It says there were not more than a half dozen of the special friends of the senator concerned. It is an anomaly anyhow for a delegation to have a platform when it has no candidate. The whole La Follette candidacy, platform and all, is simply to give the senator a clean bill of health following his war record. The delegation he heads is instructed for nothing more than to do the bidding of a boss. It is a peculiar situation and one not heard of in politics outside of Tammany; perhaps, where a delegation is asking to be sent to a convention of the republican party so that when it gets there it can do as one man, himself not a candidate, shall direct. This is an unusual brand of independence. Mr. La Follette's ticket is not progressive republican. His platform is a mess of socialism and pro-Germanism. The Tribune calls upon progressive republicans to support Bossard and Hutton on the unprincipled ticket. And the Tribune is classed as a progressive paper.

MUST ORGANIZE FOR FARM LABOR.

Rock county—every other county—must organize for production on the farms. The labor situation is acute. It is likely to be a tragedy if not mended. We have produced no great excess of foods with all the bounty of this soil in the last two years. There is every indication that less will be produced this year. The reason is simple. Labor cannot be had, or if the farmer is to go into the market and bid against the industrial plants he will be bankrupt.

Farm Bureaus now being organized will help some, but the condition is beyond the reach of the farmers themselves. Many will raise crops that will require a minimum of labor. These are not generally good crops but like hemp and hay, hardly profitable. Power farming, while a great assistance, will not solve, though it might ease the situation. Every effort should be made by all organized bodies in cities to help minimize the farmer's troubles over labor. We cannot feed on iron and steel, we must have the farm crop.

AS TO THE NEWBERRY CASE.

It is to be hoped that Senator Newberry will resign his seat in the United States senate without delay. It will be regrettable and will give the democratic members a distinct advantage though not a majority. However, there is no decent alternative. Mr. Newberry has been tried by a jury of his fellow citizens and found guilty of having received his seat after violation of laws and the expenditure of money far beyond the amount permitted in the statutes.

Nor can the excuse that the end justified the means, even though it be true and it looks that way, that the election of Henry Ford would have been a national calamity, be offered in extenuation.

The use of vast sums of money in elections is a crime. It is the one thing that will rot the very foundations of popular government.

THE CONSUMERS PAY.

Consumers will pay the increased wage granted coal miners. That is not news. No one expected anything else. But in view of the statements of Ex-Secretary McAdoo, before the investigating committee that some operators were making 2,000 percent, it might be well to fix a coal value as well as a wage scale. As the situation is left, the operator can sell coal for whatever he can squeeze from the public. There is no restriction and no redress other than an appeal to the courts and all the obstructive machinery attendant thereto.

DELAWARE KEEPS TO ITS REPUTATION.

Delaware will not approve of woman suffrage. In refusing to ratify the amendment, the little state is true to its long record smeared with reaction, political bribery, and graft. It is true also to its sister southern states, all of whom have opposed suffrage.

It will be a great thing for America and better for the European countries when the contingent of Boy Scouts go abroad to attend the International meeting in London in July. There is nothing better in the United States in the way of organized effort to make many men from the boys than the Boy Scouts of America. Good, clean American citizenship is fostered in this group of young Americans as in no other country. It is typical of the republic.

The best lesson in thrift is a thrift garden. With the farm labor conditions more acute than ever and the prospects of a lessened crop it is necessary to plant all the spare ground in the cities.

Speaking of the proposition to make an issue of pro-

A CREED.
Let me be brave throughout this day.
And bear what burdens come my way.
Let me not whimper nor complain
That I must face the wind and rain.
Or, if the sun is pleased to shine,
Let me rejoice in what is mine.

God grant that from my lips shall fall
No careless word, however small.
To wound another. May my voice
Cause all who hear it to rejoice;
This day, from start unto the end.

May all men find in me a friend.
I would not aroid this day with greed
Or hate or any selfish deed.
But I would fill it with my best.
And conscience clear lie down to rest;
God grant that when this day shall go,
No honest man shall call me foe.

In all I say and all I do.
To God and man I would be true;
I would be helpful here and kind,
And clean of heart and broad of mind;
Surely for this brief day I can,
Whatever happens, play the man.

hibition the democratic Nashville Tennesseean says "No group of statesmen will ever be so foolish as to harken to the swill barrel Lorelei. Any fool answering the call will be dashed on the rocks of political oblivion."

Senator France, wants the republican irreconcilables to join the Budweiser party along with Gov. Edwards. Here is a place for Mr. Thompson and the La Follette hotters.

Add destruction of Personal Liberty: wives and children are wearing better clothes than ever; less poverty in all the larger cities; eradication of slums fast going on.

One place the government is not extravagant and that is in paying adequate salaries to postal employees. Leave it to Burleson to keep the wages down.

So it is out: Admiral Benson was the man who told the talkative Sims not "to let the British pull this wool over his eyes." Great cry and little wool.

Some day when the aldermen get around to it we are going to have a real traffic ordinance in the city and some regulations about parking autos.

Has the fact that a soap-maker is conducting Wood's campaign anything to do with the smoothness with which it is running?

In Russia, the proletariat is begging food to save himself from starvation. In America he is paying his income tax.

Postmaster General Burleson seems to be the cootie of the cabinet. He is hard to displace from a fixed position.

With Lansing a candidate for president, the 'vase will have to be run in sections or overcrowd the track.

The Eau Claire leader has given the crowning insult when it calls him Charles Chapman.

The Colby single-track mind has been loaded on the Wilson rails and is ready to be moved.

The La Follette-delegation is talking of walking the plank if they do not make them.

This is the time to fix the magneto on the garden rake.

It certainly seems that the state income tax law and blanks could be made perfectly plain; but from the loud calls for help from everywhere, it seems the state puzzle is ruining a close second to the National Income puzzle. Why are the people, business firms and corporations so harassed? For the tax is enough without adding mental torture to it.—Racine Journal-News.

Senator Johnson, presidential candidate, may have decided to regret having accepted a nomination from the North Dakota non-partisan. He would have done far better to have kept out of what appears to be a socialist and communistic organization.—Racine Journal-News.

This ought to be a good year for fruit in this section, at least if one puts faith in the old theory that every other season is favorable in this respect.—Oshkosh Northwestern.

Backward Glances

FORTY YEARS AGO.
March 24, 1880.—The old soldiers met again last night and furthered plans for sending a delegation to the reunion in Milwaukee next week. Dr. Henry Palmer presided at the meeting and John McCulloch acted as secretary.—Prof. McAllister concluded his series of lectures on art last night. The topic was home decoration.

THIRTY YEARS AGO.
March 24, 1890.—Frank D. Kimball has purchased the interest of James Hall in the furniture firm of Hall and Kimball and will now conduct the business alone.—The cigar store of S. O. Chase has been purchased by J. L. Spellman, proprietor of the Northwestern Cigar factory.—The price of ice for 1890 will be twenty cents per hundred pounds.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.
March 24, 1900.—Marshall Appleby is following every possible clue, in the hopes to catch the thieves who entered the store of Bort, Bailey and company in Beloit and stole some valuable silks.—There is considerable talk here of having electric searchlights put on the passenger trains in this section. They have been tried around Chicago and have been found very successful.

TEN YEARS AGO.
March 24, 1910.—The Industrial and Commercial club will meet tomorrow night at the city hall, at which time Lucius Wilson, Des Moines, Iowa, will talk on the city's needs.—There will be a benefit basketball game next Friday night in the Rink between two local teams, the players to be picked from the Cardinals and the high school five.

Washington, D. C.

"New York, March 24.—The day of the overjoyed, over-dressed, over-thing, full of sentiment and illusion, is drawing to a close. Gladness and glad rags are going out of fashion.

According to Miss Jane D. Ripplin, national director of the Girl Scouts, within the next ten years women are going to abandon all creative attempts at illusion, and live a peaceful, thrifty existence, like men. They are going to wear plain business suits and severe hats, abjure high heels and cosmetics and exercise a restraining influence on their exuberant gossamer, especially white, at work. Miss Ripplin herself is doing all that she can to bring this admirable reform about.

"Every day," she says, "we are teaching the girl that her body isn't a Christmas tree on which to hang a lot of ornaments. The young women become accustomed to the wearing of her own simple uniform and see its value. Of course, she cannot wear it all ways, but she knows that the next best thing is a plain one-piece dress with a belt. Her scout shoes are big and broad with low heels, and she knows the danger of high heels, especially white, every one of our girls comes to know that girls who wear artificial things on their faces have artificial things in their characters."

Takes Them While Young
By taking them while they are young this day, in teaching them to respect for grim and even occasionally homely reality, it is hoped that the "too-glad" outlook can eventually be stamped out. Miss Ripplin is aided and abetted in this useful campaign by various women's clubs, including the Wall Street club, the Irene Thayer club, the organization of chorus girls, and A. Mitchell Palmer, whose interest is in selecting not so much gladness as extravagance.

While the campaign is invading even our drawing rooms, with the idea of flogging them a little more fully and less fancifully, it is particularly directed at the modern working woman. Young women who wear distracting clothes to the office, whose gladness effervesces and spills over into the street, who monopolize telephones for protracted, unfruitful conversations with their various assistants and who insist upon joyfully yamping the boss when the poor man is anxious to get through the dictation and out to his golf, are not expected to do so in the future. The Wall Street club is taking these species of gladness under its wing in the hope of definitely saddening them.

Has Decided Ideas
Miss Elizabeth Sibley, president of the organization, has decided on the subject of dress in which she expects to impress upon thousands of young women employed in the Wall Street district during the coming year.

"Not everything that is necessary to know if one is to succeed in a business office is taught in the schools or in business courses," declares Miss Sibley. "There are questions of dress and deportment which are most important in the office, and which are taught through the state of office work, which these girls are just entering, can give them a word or two of advice, which we feel should be of some value."

Conditions Are Shocking
As it is, conditions are so shocking, according to Miss Sibley, that one would not wonder if a large building house, recently became so embarrassed at the diaphanous attire of the other feminine workers that it would call the windows in the future. She then tactfully suggested that the girls put on their coats so that they would not take cold.

At the recent convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women here, where the subject of dress reform received the most deal of discussion, Mrs. Christine R. Kefauver, supervising inspector of the Bureau of Industrial Hygiene at the New York state department of health, created a mild stir by her assertion that "many a wife becomes unduly suspicious of her husband if he has a girl who looks like a flapper."

model." In her opinion it was up to the modern business girl to suppress her glad appearance in order that the home wife might rest in peace and comfort. Mrs. Kefauver is not especially interested in the welfare of boss's wives except insofar as they interfere with the success of business women.

No Longer Filling Gap.
"The business woman may not realize it, but she is not fair to herself to dress for the office in unsuitable clothes," she says. The time has come when entering business with a woman does not mean merely the filling of a gap between school and marriage. It means as much today to a girl as it does to her brother. She must therefore avail herself of every opportunity to make it a success. What would we think of a man who wore a dress suit to work in the morning? And yet women go into office in gowns suitable for tea or dinner."

Mrs. Kefauver knows of one case where a young office worker, doubtless a victim of glad propaganda about the goodness of the human race (if you only look on the bright side of high heels and white), through dressing a trifle too exuberantly for the role of clerk. Happily unconscious of her unbecoming attire, she was making upon a cynical public, she went about the efficient performance of her duties until one day she was fired by her employer. Clients happened into the office and saw her. That woman immediately defended that her husband, a whole lot of business employees were less gorgeously attired, which so upset the young clerk's boss that she fired her.

Chorus Girls Growing Sober
If the present campaign were confined to the dress and manners of the chorus girls, it would be of minor importance to it, but even chorus girls have become infected by the desire to be sober-minded. It is not unusual to find whole companies of chorus girls diligently knitting while waiting for the cues in the wings; while one company playing here in New York has organized a Thrift club, which is an organization for promoting the wear of sensible muslin lingerie. These girls have reformed and have espoused the cause, practical and economical garments of their grandmothers' days.

Nowhere else in the world do waifing, or for that matter any other kind of women, wear such foolish and senseless undergarments. The chorus girls, who are the daughter of a British poor and only in the chorus because she has no other means of earning her living, are not so much as they are by no means reticent concerning their manner of dress. In fact, we have seen in underwear she describes in great detail. After announcing that the Duchess of Portland, the Duchess of Devonshire and many other titled ladies on friendly terms with her grandmother, were partial to unbleached muslin, the original source of the idea, she said the present generation was inclined to favor silk, but that this frivolous taste is now being suppressed by a popular wave of reform.

Now Between Acts
As evidence that they are speaking nothing but the truth and the whole truth, the members will take you back to their dressing tables and show you their small portable, unbleached muslin, costing 55 apiece, whereon they manufacture lingerie between the acts. "Of course," you know, such practical business women, who are so good at the end of the act, which shows how demoralized the public taste has become, and how frivolous."

Thus, with even the stage developing an antipathy to frivolity, the future holds much hope for the reform of dress. With so many reforms under way and gathering furious momentum, there will soon be nothing left to be glad about. Yes, there could be much hope for the weary in the future were it not for one disquieting possibility. If the girls went right on being glad, anyway?

ABOUT GOV. PHILIPP AND A POSSIBLE FOURTH TERM
Governor Philipp is said to be grooming himself as a "fourth term" candidate for governor. It is said that he is going to come out as the "wet" candidate, he being the only candidate who is in sympathy with the "wets." We are sorry for the governor if he has to resort to this campaign argument. Governor Edwards has brought New Jersey into bad repute throughout the entire country, and it is to be hoped that our governor will have more regard for the moral standing of Wisconsin than to come out as a third candidate. If he wants to run for governor, he can do so; but let not the governor of this great state stoop to a campaign issue of that kind. We hope the report is not correct, and that if he is going to run, it will be upon some constructive platform, one that will mean the betterment of our state, as well as of others.—Antigo Journal.

POEMS BY OUR BUTLER, HORATIO GAUCHY.
Oh, ye merry bally tramcars
Hin this blinkin' bloomin' land
Where the ladies all get seated
And the gentils all 'ste to stand,
And a blither enter with his helbow
Hin me bally, blawasted hye
Puts 'is finger in me pocket.
Where 'e 'opes to find some rye,
Every time 'e glases a crushin'
'Tis the breaking of the flagon
That they carry on the 'ip.
For the crowds are most impatient
As they push this way and that
And they crush you flamin' 'n't
When you stoop to get your topper
As it troles toward the door
Someone playfully assaults you
And you 'eadspin on the floor.
And the crowd keeps getting thicker
And they trample 'n'on your feet
And they jam you in a corner
Till you're miles beyond your street.
Hi! how 'ow to get 'n'into
These cars that run about,
But 'ow, oh, 'ow, please tip me,
'Ow does a bloke get 'n'out?"

There is some discussion as to whether a burglar is really dishonest or not. Is this "burglar dishonest?" asks a newspaper man.

We used to think that burglars were dishonest—that they lacked moral fiber—but we now realize that the term dishonest can be used only relatively when attached to housebreakers. In days gone by a burglar never inspired in us any such degree of confidence. We considered him downright bad.

But now, after we have tried to get a place to live in and something to eat and something to wear, we feel inclined to say that the burglar is a kindergarten pupil, as it were. Compared with the average 1920 profiteer, the most profane porch climber is only a babe in crime.

Time mellow's one's opinions. It is better to bear the burglars we have than to fly to others that we know not of.

Here Is Over 6 Per Cent Net Income for Small Investors After Paying Both State and Federal Income Tax

Small investors throughout Wisconsin are buying Wisconsin Gas & Electric Company's 5-year 7 per cent gold notes and 7 per cent preferred stock, in amounts ranging from $50 to $10,000.

The two issues—$500,000 of notes and $500,000 of preferred stock—have been advertised in ninety of the best daily and weekly papers of the state, and orders are coming in from all parts of Wisconsin.

If you want part of either issue—any amount from $50 up—we advise you to apply for it soon. If you want shares or notes reserved, to be paid for any time within three months, we will hold them for you.

Those who want a safe short-term investment are buying the notes. Those who want a regular, dependable 7 per cent income from savings or surplus capital are buying the preferred stock. A good many who buy the notes will probably decide later to exchange them at par for shares of the preferred stock. They have this privilege on any interest date to September 1, 1924. The notes mature March 1, 1925.

These small investors figure that the 7 per cent yield of these issues will give them over 6 per cent NET INCOME, after paying both State and Federal income taxes. They figure that their investment in one of the state's largest, strongest, fastest-growing public service companies is safe; and they know that their money, so invested, is helping to promote the growth and prosperity of their own State.

If in doubt, as between putting your money into a safe Wisconsin 7 per cent, and sending it off on a speculation in some other State or country, ASK YOUR BANKER.

You can buy the 5-year notes in $50, $100, $500 and $1,000 sizes. Their 7 per cent interest is payable March 1 and September 1.

The preferred stock is in $100 shares. Its 7 per cent dividends are payable quarterly—April 15, July 15, October 15 and January 15, to stockholders of record March 1, June 1, September 1 and December 1.

Price, either issue, par for cash. Bank draft, certified check or postoffice money order should be sent with mail orders.

If it is not convenient for you to call, telephone or write to our nearest sales office, and one of our men will visit you at your convenience and take your order, if, after investigating, you wish to buy part of either issue.

The DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

IN WHICH SHE MEETS HER FUTURE IN-LAWS.

Well, I'm still engaged and, therefore, still important in the eyes of my family and friends. Furthermore, I have discovered that some of my friends are a bit peeved at my getting Jack. Of course, Maisie and "Beb" Green never for a moment dreamed that I suspected that they had hopes for Jack themselves. They don't seem to realize that the eyes are the windows to the soul and also to inmost designs of every girl as well. Also, that certain remarks are excellent indicators of personal feeling in the still unmarried woman's breast.

But of course I could afford to be sweet and sort of patient with them, for I am the lucky one and I realize that it must just be a terrible lot, not to land the fellow you have set your heart on. Well, Jack is certainly everything that a girl could hope for. He has rung me every few hours since we got engaged. I guess, and never has anything but the same things to say when I come to the phone. It's too funny and I really want to laugh at him, but remember in time that he is my fiance. One treats them differently from ordinary fellows. Last night he took me to call on his family. My mother, father, and I were a bit scared. No, not exactly scared, but ruffled and on the defensive. My girls know have such horrid in-laws. Mother Jack is round and comfy and sort of sweet. She made a fuss

THE HIGH COST OF SICKNESS—12

Mr. Miller Has an Abscess.

Soon after the strike was settled Mr. Miller developed a boil. Mrs. Miller had some Valley Salve in which she placed great faith, and she applied a generous dose of it "on a rag." Miller became more and more uncomfortable. Then it happened in one of the neighbors who prescribed a poultice. The neighbor gave explicit instructions that the flaxseed meal was to go next to the skin. Miller endured it for two days, then began to feel pretty sick. He managed, poor fellow, to navigate a plain boat in a situation where he was to be the doctor's office. "Pretty ugly abscess," said the doctor, examining the lesion.

"Why, we thought it was a boil," said Miller.

"Well, a boil is an abscess. And abscess is an accumulation of pus—matter, anywhere, in quantity. A boil is a small abscess. You have here a plain boil in a situation where the subcutaneous tissue is loose, and that permits the infection to spread in all directions, making a rather large subcutaneous abscess in a few days. I see you have been applying filthy poultices—felt kinda sorry for the poor, hungry puss-puss, who thought you'd feed 'em and keep 'em nice and warm and moist so they could multiply and thrive and be happy? You're a kind hearted man, Miller."

The abscess was opened by a mere puncture. The doctor soaked multi-folded pieces of clean cheesecloth (cheesecloth which had been boiled five minutes) in a hot solution and placed them quickly upon the abscess and applied a bandage to retain the dressing. He gave Miller a pint of the same solution and instructed him to have a few spoonfuls poured on the dressing every hour or so. Keep it moist and constantly moist, and to apply fresh clean cheesecloth folds as often as the discharge soiled the dressing.

The patient returned three days later feeling no better. On examination the doctor found a piece of dry, non-absorbent material on the dry, sore, swollen abscess. Miller explained that he had run out of dressing. He gave Miller a pint of the wet dressing, since Saturday morning.

Miller hasn't much money but he could afford to consult a doctor and

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a married woman with a family and a husband. He would rather gamble than make good money and provides well for his lot playing cards.

I do all my own work, sewing and washing to cut expenses, and clothe three children comfortably. I lay away $70 to $80 a month, but he draws it out and when I go to have the bank book checked there is never much left. If I say anything about it he says, "Don't you get every thing you want?" or "He's the only one of his kind." D. Rockefeller's son for a husband.

I just feel like leaving and never coming back. I work hard and can't have a little money of my own and have planned much, but my hopes are all leaving me. Please tell me what to do.

HELEN MARIE.

Spend more money yourself. You work so hard that you make yourself nervous and unfit to face your problem. You cannot make your husband give up gambling by arguing with him. Your best argument will be to keep surplus money out of his reach. Leave more help in your work so that you will have more time to enjoy yourself. What money you save, put in a personal savings account which he cannot touch. I believe he will be pleased when he finds you are spending more money. A man, as a rule, does not want his wife to be close with money and a share to work.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am nineteen years of age, an excellent housekeeper. I am without a mother and am keeping house for my father. We have a large family. After my mother died father's mother stepped in and I was thrown out without money or anything. I got a light

CARDS OVERCOME FAIRIES' LEAD AND WIN LAST OF SERIES

By George McManus.

RALLY BY JANES WINS GAME 21-18

Contest Apparently Lost at Half Time With Score 15-7; Woods and Levis Star.

(By FRANK SINCLAIR)
To be apparently hopelessly beaten at the end of the first half and to come back with such force as to be able to toy with the enemy in the last ninety seconds of play was the experience of the Lakota Cardinals in taking the sixth and last game of the series from the Fairies at Beloit last night, 21-18.

The game was the deciding one in the string. By winning it the Cards copped the series with four victories and two defeats, all but one of which was played in the Gateway city.

In the opening period the Lakotas were way out of form. Their team work was poor; they could not get started. While "Swede" Johnson of Chicago, who was with the Cards, played a fast game he seemed to be lost on the floor. Effective guarding by the Fairies and great interference plays kept the Cards from making any short passes and of the three baskets scored in the first half all were made back of the black line near the center of the court.

Sensational Comeback
The comeback in the second half was sensational. It seemed as if an entirely new team had taken the floor. With perfect confidence and plenty of pep, the Lakotas swung into a scoring stride that took them way into the running with 14 points to a little three made by the Fairies. It appeared in less than 20 minutes of play that the two teams had merely swapped their style of play used in the first half.

After the game had gone ten minutes a general scrap ensued on the floor when Jimmy McCue of Janesville, got into a row with Harry-headed "Trafalgar" of the Fairbanks team on the calling of three personal fouls on "Kybo" Brumm. The disturbance ended with McCue being struck in the face by Trafalgar and losing three teeth. The big fair center was taken off the floor for the rest of the evening.

"Wing" Woods of the Fairies played the best all round game of the night. Even after he had been rushed onto the crowd, sustaining a bloody cut on the left side of his face, he stuck to the fight with such pugnacity that won instant praise from the 700 fans gathered in the college gym. His wretched and steady passing broke up many a Cardinal play that might have meant earlier defeat for his team.

The rally of the Cards came early in the second half through the work of George Levis, Madison, who, entirely well known in Janesville, soon got into his old-time form. He smashed through the first basket on the winding-up time, gave the Cards a lead and led them in the onslaught that tied the score and then sent them into the lead for the honors.

One blood of the game came in the first minute of play. It was drawn by the Fairies on a free throw by Tilly when Young, on short passes, Zabel sent the opening field goal through the iron ring and a double personal foul by the Lakotas sent the Gateway city bunch another chalk mark.

When Zabel fouled Brumm, the Janesville kids got their new score. They did not wait to get together, telling play, until after seeing down the floor. Levis collared the sphere, slid, stunted and shot. The ball was not after him, captured the ball, and with a clear field, scored. Cards' Bud Luck.

Unfortunate shots were being expected by the Lakota players. Many of their long shots, that appeared from the press table about certain to drop through the net, faintly danced around the rim of the basket to fall into the waiting hands of Fairies players. On many such chances, the Line city bunch advanced the ball back to their own territory and scored. In this manner the next basket was made by Zabel, and was followed with a beautiful violation shot from the center of the floor by the injured Woods. The Cards were at this time outclassed by the swift guard and interference game. The Fairies, when they got the ball, they seemed not to know what to do with it, which was due in large part to the manner in which the Fairbanks five hung to their men, stopping all chances at open passing.

Half Ends 15-7.
When Woods shot a Zabel on a dribble and Karst scored by jumping over the waiting arms of "Baldy," the half ended 15-7 in favor of Beloit.

Levis opened in the scoring in the final period by a double-up on baskets. Then for a moment the Janesville team seemed to fall back into its previous style of bewilderment, but it lasted only long enough to be untied, when Young on a pass and untied shot, sent the score to 15-13.

The next basket made by the Fairies was as pretty a play as seen this season. Zabel had the ball; he was guarded closely, but he bent over, pushed the sphere along the floor and rolled it to the waiting Woods.

Game Getting Peppery.
The game was speeding up. The Bower city fans, realizing that their team now had a chance to win, were shouting frantically. For a little better than a minute, the ball changed hands without any advantage to either side. With a rush, busting up the Fairies' guards, shot on passes, Eddie Karst put over the basket that made the score 17 all. The teams were on edge; the crowd was on its feet. Zabel fouled, giving the Janesville kids a chance to take the lead. Young was nervous and missed the shot. On a pass from one end of the floor to the other, Eddie again scored and the Cards took the lead.

On a foul made by Young, Tilly scored. With four minutes to go, Levis, who had already made three baskets in the half, again executed his great slide, halt and shoot play and the score stood 21-13 in favor of Janesville.

Unsettling plays filled up the last minute. The Cards had the ball and they kept it. Apparently realizing that if they shot for the basket they would not after him, captured the ball and score, they contented themselves with passing the sphere among themselves and keeping it from Beloit.

Summary:
Fairies (18): Levis, 1; Karst, 1; Brumm, 1; Johnson, 1; Woods, 1; Tilly, 1; Phillips, 1; Zabel, 1; Young, 1; Carroll, 1; Tilly, 1; Substitutions: Carroll to guard; Johnson to center; Brumm out; LaFol for Phillips.

MERRY MUSIC OF SENSATION SAID TO FACE BIG BASEBALL

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 24.—Revelations of a sensational nature were hinted at in an announcement made here today by Lee Magee, former Cincinnati and Chicago National League ballplayer.
"On Saturday," said Magee, "I shall make public the charges on which the National League bases its action in having me from its circuit. I'll show the documents, both in my favor and against me, and let the public judge whether I've been fairly treated. I'll add to this: I'm going to hurt my bridges and then jump off the ruins. If I'm barred I'll take quite a few noted people with me. I'll show up some people for tricks turned ever since 1906, and there will be merry music in the baseball world."

NATIONAL GUARD FIVE TACKLES U. B. TONIGHT

Following several nights of stiff practice, the basketball team of the recently organized national guard tackled the five of the United Brethren church at the armory at 8 o'clock tonight. Though defeated by the Metlants last Saturday night, the guard five has shown up in greatly improved form in scrimmage practice.

Indications are that this team will show to good advantage tonight, although it will be only its second game.

It is probable that the guard will have another game tomorrow night.

Game Protective Fish Feed Tonight

With Governor Phillip as the main speaker of the evening, the Rock county game protective association will hold its annual banquet at the Presbyterian church, Beloit, tonight at 7 o'clock. A large number of Janesville men are planning to take the trip.

Tickets are on sale at F. J. Hinterschied's, 23-25 West Milwaukee street and C. E. Snyder's, 12 North River Street.
